

Project Introduction

Congratulations on completing the course of AI for Managers.

Let us now discuss the project for this course.

The project for this course is divided into two parts:

- The first part will have you create a no-code AI model through google's teachablemachine platform.
- For the second part of the project, you will have to identify the applications of AI for your current business domain and write an article on how AI can help your domain of work.

So, let us move on to the next segments and understand the project components better.
