

TOPIC - "Dispute Resolution Mechanisms: A Comparative Study of Arbitration and Litigation in Civil Law and Common Law Jurisdictions"

The maximum word length is 1500 words (this is including headings but excluding footnotes and the reference list). An extra 10% is allowed, however, penalties apply beyond this.

Referencing must be consistent with the Australian Guide to Legal Citation (AGLC, 4th edition).³ A reference list must be included at the end of your essay.

TEACHERS REMARK FOR THE TOPIC - I think this looks like a really interesting topic and I look forward to reading your analysis. However, remember that the idea is to learn more about non common law traditions. If you do want to compare common law, you can do that, but treat the common law as "assumed knowledge" and provide only a short overview of the key points that are relevant concerning common law, so that you do not focus overly on describing common law jurisdiction.
